Last Days of the Commune-Its Final Struggle and Bloody Overthrow.

The Fancy of the Writer Detects in a Crowd of Condemned Communists Likenesses to Many of our Radical Patriots.

Correspondence of the Savannah Morning PARIS, May 22, 4 p.m., 1871.-The supreme hour," in French phrase, at last arrived. After tifty days and nights of blood and carnage, during which neither of the combatanta achieved an important victory, the outside army managed to effect its vard Malesherbes. The other is sup-posed to be near the Notre Dame. The ronghold of the Commune is in the quarter of the Madeleine, of which my location is the center. The fortiications around (they are not mere barricades) are formidable, and if car-ried by the troops of the National Assembly, an immense destruction of life and property is inevitable. I can convey to you no adequate idea of the extraordinary spectacle which is pre-The deafening peals of artillery in close proximity, the bursting of bombs in the air, almost directly over my head; the ever and anon whizzing bullets of uncertain destination; the huge volumes of black smoke rolling slowly upward from some edifice on fire; the screaming of women and children are of the things which I see and hear. I alone stand my ground in this large mansion. All its other inmates have fied for salety to the cellars. I regard myself in the midst of a battlefield, where a shot may at any time knock me over. The flames are shooting forth in horrid splendor from the Ministere des Finances. That magnificent edifice, covering an entire square, is, in a straight line, within two hundred yards of where I am sitting. It faces the Garden of the Tuileries, extending from the Rue du Luxembourg to the Rue Castiglione. The army of Versailles is steadily pressing forward. The firing on both sides becomes more and more impetuous as nightfall approaches. The Philippi is likely to be the front of the Madeleine, and to be the front of the Madeleine, and down the Rue Royale to the Place de las Concords. I had descended an hour before and had been provided by the comcierge with a seat from whence I could distinctly see, through the railing of the large gateway, the operations in front of me. National Guards, protected by their barricade, held their ground with intrepid tenacity for some time. Suddealy the troops of the line, in a considerable body, entered the Rue de Seze from the Place de la Madeleine, and turning into the Rue de Godot, which runs parallel with the Fermes des Mathurins, at a distance of forty or fifty yards, quickly demolished the temporary barricades therein and obtained possession of the Boulevard. The flight of the National Guards was precipitate. They ran, crouching as lowly as they could to move swiftly, in order to avoid the shots that wer simed at their rear, until they reached the Rue Duphot on the opposite side, Near the in an oblique direction. corner they took their stand, where they were in uninterrupted communica. ion, by the way of the Rue St. Hone with the Place Vendome, their st. onghold. Daniels knocked up his arm aud wrenched his pistol out of his hand. The crowd then battered down the door of the cell, where Mears was confined, with sledge hammers. The poor wretch begged for mercy, but no one gave heed to his appeals. They then seized him, pin-ioned his arms and carried him into the street. Dr. Daniels then addressed the crowd, saying that he had sworn not to return home until the murderer was executed, and asked the crowd if they would stand by him. All responded in the affirmative. PYRON'S Planetary Horse Power.

THE SENT HORSE POWER EVER IN-C. W. GOYER & CO.

We, the undersigned citizens of Memphis, certify that we this day wilnessed the application of Pyron's Planetary Power to an Eighty saw Cotton Gin, wito the following results: The Gin was revoyed with the unanappidity, with a full roll of cot on, by two nuties, at an easy gait and draught; and we further state that we believe it greatly superior to any home power we have any knowledge of, and a power suitable for every planfer using a Gin, Grist or Naw mill.

Properly authenticated, with Humes & Poston, & North Courtstriet, Memphis, within the time prescribed by law, or same will be barrel.

ARY ANN McGEOY, Executive of Mary Ann McGuire.

July 7, 1872. The reason this indulgence is maked of the public we briefly make: Our enterprise is one of magnitude requiring the establishment of a geneles throughout the from New York to the racente Shore, but in rioing so more time has been constined them from New York to the racente Shore, but in rioing so more time has been constined them we smild paked. We see in working order everywhere desired, and place the day of krawing only two months off for the purpose of giving all our agents, far and near, full scope for their best labout. We started out to remose the people a Distribution of valuable Real Estate that should be satisfactory to them in the astallar of a drawing, and we thiend to maintain that point regardless of all size. If there is to be any grambling, we prefer that it shall desur in regard to the slight daisy we sak, than to have it take place after the drawing is over. On the dist of a ugoet our subcrycies will be perfected. Washo not now will not be controlled. The same of Ruppylin.
